Problem 1. Prove that n^2 + n is even for every integer n.

Reference solution. Write n^2 + n = n(n + 1). Among the two consecutive integers n and n + 1 exactly one is even, so their product n(n + 1) is even.